

Great Undertakings.

Apes from conquering a peace and other grand results of the year we live in, there are two great undertakings under way at present, which may be classed among the grandest achievements of the enterprise and science of the century, or since "creation's dawn." We refer, of course, to the two lines of telegraph between the Old World and the New. By to-day's dispatches from the far north, via San Francisco, and by those in our last exchanges from New York, we learn that, if no untoward event occurs to blast the hopes of the parties respectively interested, there will, before very long, be two speaking trumpets between the two hemispheres, one beneath the bed of the ocean, and the other mostly by land.

That by the Atlantic will be in operation before many days, should no bad fortune break the cable of its projector's hopes; whilst the other, by way of Behring's strait, Asia and Northern Europe, will occupy some months yet, or perhaps a year. When these two triumphs of science and enterprise are completed, Uncle Sam can talk to Johnny Bull and vice versa, without waiting a few long weeks to get their answers. So can the business world here know what stocks and consols rate at every morning, without speculating in suspense a fortnight after.

Or he can send his message round the earth, more than eight times the distance, in order to reach the same point. It would naturally be supposed that the shortest and directest route would also be the cheapest, but from announced rates proposed by these two lines, this appears to be far from fact. By the Atlantic cable, it will cost $100, for twenty words, and a V for every word additional; while by the Russo-American line, if we aright remember, it is proposed to send twenty five words for $40.

Give the competition, say we. Let the lightning lines be multiplied, both by land and sea, until, after a while, we can give you in our morning UNION VEGETTE the morning's news of London, St. Petersburg and elsewhere, from five to fifteen hours ahead of the time that it occurred—by their own meridians!

Interesting About Mormondom.

Mr. Bowles, of the Springfield, Mass. Republic, who was with the Colfax delegation here, has written better letters by far than both Gov. Bross and A. D. Richardson. His opinions along with theirs, upon the "peculiar institutions" of Utah, will have the heaviest weight in influencing public opinion and that of the Government. Here are extracts from what Mr. Bowles writes in his letter dated Great Salt Lake City, June 14, 1885.

Most picturesque of all the scenes of this day and night ride was the passage through Echo Canon, a very miniature Rhine valley in all but vines and storied ruin. The only ruins in it were those of feeble fortifications which the Mormons set up when President Buchanan marched his army against them, but halted and went away without attack, leaving stores of provisions, weapons and ammunition, and a contempt for the government, which the Mormons have hardly exhausted yet. Early "sun-up" brought us to the last station, kept by a Mormon bishop with four wives, who gave us blitters and breakfast, the latter with green peas and strawberries, and then, leaving wife No. 1 at his home, went on with us into the city to parochial visits to the other three, who are kept at convenient distances around the territory.

Finally we came out upon the plateau or "bench," as they call it here, that overlooks the valley of the Jordan, the valley alike of Utah Lake and the great Salt Lake, and the valley of the intermediate Great Salt Lake City. To the right, upon the plateau, lay Camp Douglas, the home of the soldiers and a village in itself, holding guard over the town, and within easy cannon range of lake and lake and thithering home, right beneath, in an angle of the plain, which stretched south to Utah Lake and west to the Salt Lake,—"and Jordan rolled between,"—was the City, regularly and handsomely laid out, with many fine buildings, and filled with thick gardens of trees and flowers, that gave it a fairy land aspect; across the plain spread out 5 to 10 miles in width, with scattered farm-houses and flocks of cattle; below, it was lost in dim distance, above, it gave way, 20 miles off, to the line of light that marked the beginning of Salt Lake—the whole flat as a floor and sprinkling with river and irrigating canals, and overlooked on both sides by hills that mounted to the snow line, and yet from which flowed the richest of waters for soil that makes this once desert blossom under the hand of industry with every variety of verdure, every product of almost every class. No inland city of the continent has such a garden of beauty, unlike such elements of nature's formations, holds such guarantee of greatness, material and social, in the good time coming of our Pacific development. I met all along the Plains and over the mountains the feeling that Salt Lake was to be the great central city of the west; I found the map, with Montana, Idaho, and Oregon on the north, Dakota and Colorado on the east, Nevada and California on the west, Arizona on the south, and a near connection with the sea by the Colorado river in the latter direction, suggested the same. I recognized it in the Sabbath morning picture of its location and possessions; I am convinced of it as I see more and more of its opportunities, its developed industries, and its unimproved possessions.

We have been taken on an excursion to the great Salt Lake, bathed in its wonderful waters, on which you float like a cork, sailed on its surface, and picnicked by its shore,—if picnic can be without women for sentiment and to spread table cloth, and to be helped up and over rocks. Can you New Englanders fancy a stag picnic? We have been turned loose in the big strawberry patch of one of the saloons—very worldly strawberries and more worldly appetites met and mingled; and we have had a peep into a moderate Mormon harem, but being introduced to two different women of the same name, one after another, was more than I could stand without blushing. In Mormon etiquette, President Brigham Young is called upon; by Washington fashion, the Speaker is also called upon, and does not call—there was a question whether the distinguished visitor would meet; Mr. Colfax, as was met under the situation of affairs here, made a point upon it, and gave notice he should not call; whereupon President Brigham yielded the question, and graciously came to-day with a crowd of high dignitaries of the church, and made, not one of Emerson's prescribed ten minutes calls, but a generous, pleasant, gossiping sitting of two hours long. He is a very hale and hearty looking man, young for 64, with a light gray eye, old and uncertain, mouth and chin betraying a great and determined will—handsome perhaps as to presence and features, but repellent in atmosphere and without magnetism. In conversation, he is cool and quiet in manner, but suggestive in expression; has ideas, but uses bad grammar. He was rather formal, but courteous, and at the last uttered frankness and freedom, if he felt it not. To his followers, I observed he was master of that profound art of eastern politicians, which consists in putting the arm affectionately around them, and tenderly inquiring for health of selves and families; and when his eye did sparkle and his lips soften, it was with most cheering, though not warming effect—it was pleasant but did not meet you. Of his companions, Heber C. Kimball is perhaps the most notorious, his free and coarse speech has made him so. He has a very keen, sharp eye, and looks like a Westfield man I always meet at the agricultural fairs in Springfield. Dr. Bernhisel has an air of culture and refinement peculiar among his associates; he is an old, small man, venerable and suggestive of John Quincy Adams, or Dr. Gannett of Boston, in his style. Two or three others of the company have fine faces—such as you would meet in intellectual or business society in Boston or New York,—but the strength of most of the party seems to lie in narrowness, bigotry, obstinacy. They look as if they had lived on the same farm as their fathers and grandfathers, and made no improvements; gone to the same church, and sat in the same pew, without cushions; borrowed the same weekly newspaper for 40 years, drove all their children to the West or the cities; and if they went to agricultural fairs insisted on having their premiums in pure coin.

But the hospitality of Utah is not confined to the Mormons. The Gentiles or non-Mormons are becoming numerous and influential here, and, citizens and soldiers comprise many families of culture and influence. They are made up of the officers of the Federal Government, resident representatives of telegraph and stage lines, members of eastern or California business firms having branches here, a very fair proportion too, of the merchants of the city. Some of the more intelligent of the disgusted and repentant Mormons swell the circle. They have organized a literary association, established a large and growing Sunday School, largely made up of children of Mormon parents, have weekly religious services led by the chaplain of Camp Douglas, conducted a noble and prosperous daily paper (the Utah Vindicator), and in every way are developing an organized and effective opposition to the dominant power here. These people united, earnest and enthusiastic as minorities always are, claim a share in entertaining Mr. Colfax and his party, and gave them a large and most brilliant social party last night. They are not ashamed to show us their ladies, as the Mormons generally seem to be, and their ladies are such, in beauty and culture, as no circle need be ashamed of. The enjoyment of the social entertainment of music, conversation, dancing and refreshments was sadly and only broken by the announcement during the evening of the sudden death of the territorial governor, Judge Doty, formerly of Michigan and Wisconsin. He has been ill for some little time, but was thought to be better, when a sudden attack of his rheumatic gout in the heart carried him off. Gov. Doty has had large experience in territorial governments, was a wise, prudent and firm man, and was presiding over the delicate progress of affairs here successfully and satisfactorily. There should be consideration in the selection of his successor, for we are upon the eve of a crisis in Mormon affairs, and the solution, I think, of the Mormon problem.

San Francisco Dispatches.

San Francisco, Aug. 10. 9 p.m. A dispatch from Jacksonville says two more bodies of the Brother Jonathan passengers washed ashore, but were not identified at the time of the departure of the informant.

The Saratoga, from Acapulco, arrived to-day, and will start in search of the Shenandoah.

Lieut-Col. Hooker, of Sixth Infantry, succeeds McDermitt in command of the Department of Nevada.

The Golden Rule Mining Company have declared a dividend of fifty cents per share.

Greenbacks are quoted at 74.

Oroville, Cal., August 9th. From reports to-day we learn that the murders at Concow Valley were committed by Indians, probably the Indians of Mill Creek, east of T. Bama. They are making their annual raid in this country. This year they have come down the ridge between the west branch and the north bank of the Feather river, being further south than heretofore.

Jos. Miller of Frenchtown left here yesterday. He drove some beef cattle, and when near home was shot at by two Indians, and slightly wounded.

A party of five Indians burned the house of Neil Southerland, situated between the west branch and the north fork of Feather river, on the road to Frenchtown, about sixteen miles from Oroville. Residents from that section, attending the Union Convention, have returned home provided with ammunition.

FROM BRITISH COLUMBIA.

New Westminster, August 9th. The Russian Telegraph Exploring Expedition sailed on the 4th instant from Victoria. The Russian Telegraph Company's bark Clara Bell will sail from Sitka for Victoria on the arrival of Colonel Bulkley, where she will load with coal and be sent north. She is a very fine clipper bark, and made the passage from New York to Sitka in 135 days.

Fort Bringer, August 9. To Low & Co., San Francisco: I have seen one of the most horrible massacres perpetrated by the Indians, the eyes of men ever beheld—the victims being mostly women, emigrants. Seven of us, men, fought our way through two hundred miles of country infested by Indians. I shall go from here to South Boise, where I hope to be in six days, and from thence will go to San Francisco. Yours, WILSON WASHINGTON.

[That "seven of us men fought our way through two hundred miles"—must be miles of imagination. They didn't even fight a squaw. 'Twas the train travelers and the soldiers who were engaged. Ed.]

SAN FRANCISCO, August 10. The steamer Del Norte arrived yesterday afternoon with Colonel Wright and others, who went on an unsuccessful search for the remains of victims of the Brother Jonathan disaster. There were no frantic acts among the passengers, though they, as well as the officers, must have a full sense of their awful peril. Captain De Wolf ordered one of the largest boats lowered and filled with passengers, under the first mate. None of the rescued saw her till she was floating bottom upward. The Captain now ordered the second mate to lower his boat, already filled with female cabin passengers, among whom was Mrs. Gen Wright, but before the seamen had time to man her the steamer pitched and upset her, throwing all on board in the water. Two guns were fired after the boat left the steamer, and she disappeared under the billows about fifteen minutes later. Captain De Wolf, General Wright, Mr. Lord, Wells, Fargo & Co.'s messenger, and Mr. Nesbit were on deck when last seen. There were two boats on the deck when the Third Mate left, but owing to the terrible violence of the sea, it is not probable that either of them could have been launched. Most of the lady passengers were sick in their state-rooms when the boat struck, and never came on deck.

Churches in Salt Lake City.

In the afternoon we attended Mormon service at the Bowery—a great arbor with seats of rough pine boards, and a low flat roof of branches with withered leaves, supported by upright poles. For the warm season it is far pleasanter than any building—a good artificial substitute for the groves which were "God's first temples." The congregation numbered fully 3,000, in which women largely predominated. They were neatly but very plainly dressed; kid gloves were few, silk and satins were far between. Hoops abounded in all their amplitude. At first, as I am told, the preachers denounced them very bitterly from the pulpit. But female persistence triumphed, as it generally does, and ermineline proved more potent than the thunder-bolts of the Church.

Among the apostles, elders and bishops on the platform were Heber Kimball, 64 years old, tall and stout, with bald, massive head and ruddy, seasons face, and Dr. Bernhisel, former Delegate to Congress, slender, venerable looking, with mild countenance, bald crown and thin silvered locks. The sermon was by Elder Samuel Richards, a native of Massachusetts who at present rejoices in six wives, and has propagated the Mormon doctrines in nearly every quarter of the globe. It was a rambling, conversational discourse of three-quarters of an hour, claiming incidentally that his Church is the Church, because its organization and mode of working are Biblical, and its teachers directly inspired by the Almighty! With these exceptions his remarks were on life and duty, such as form the staple of orthodox discourses in New England. While he spoke the sacrament was administered to the entire assembly, bread being distributed upon metallic plates, and water instead of wine from porcelain pitchers. Many infants at the breast were present, and all permitted to quaff the water freely. The poor babies were thirsty enough, but it detracted a little from the solemnity of the ceremony. After a prayer by Elder George D. Watt, the choir sang "Daughter of Zion," without any instrumental accompaniment, but with more beauty and impressiveness than any music which I ever heard at religious worship. Then, with the benediction, the people dispersed.

My chief interest was the faces of the congregation. I saw only two women who could be called comely; both sat in the choir, and one was a daughter of Brigham Young, recently married. Few, if any countenances, impressed me as vicious. All were plain, many extremely so. As one might expect of humble people gathered from every nation of the earth, they bear the indelible impress of poverty, hard labor and stunted living. These faces could read little breadth, thought, or self reliant reasoning; but much narrowness, mere sincerity and unreflecting earnestness.

In the evening we attended the service of the Rev. Norman McLeod. He is a Congregationalist; but all the anti-Mormon worship at his church. The congregation was small, but one of unusual intelligence, embracing citizens, officers from Camp Douglas and twenty or thirty ladies. The "Gentile" population of this city, exclusive of the soldiers, number from 200 to 300. This includes the merchants of Abernethy descent, for it is one of the anomalies of this anomalous community that all the Jews are Gentiles.—A. D. RICHARDSON—Cor. N. Y. Tribune.

YESTERDAY was a scorcher.

A new jewelry store is to be started shortly, opposite the City Hotel.

THE famous Long John Wentworth announces his creed to be that "a loyal nigger is better than a white traitor."

EX-President Buchanan is still writing for the public. 'Tis a pity some people don't know when they are dead.

THE Internal Revenue office has decided that the mere carding of wool is not a manufacture, and does not subject it to that duty.

A considerable gap in society, at Walla Walla, Oregon, has been caused by the hanging of fifteen thieves by a vigilance committee.

As we went to press last evening, unbroken columns of saints and gentiles, jeans and broadcloth, silk and calico, were marching on the Theater.

It is getting a little livelier at the stores, as the regular season for the summer and fall business is drawing nigh. And it is time for it.

SEING the sentence "use strengthens habit," in an old exchange, our "devil" said "that's where he and I differ." He tried the theory on a coat, and it did not answer at all!

THERE will be no performance at the Theater to-night, but to-morrow evening is to be a rouser. Look out for the glorious bill, and secure your engagements early.

As good a time as any, to advertise and to scatter your cards and hand-bills broad cast. We're a press to print 'em, by the way, business-like and cheap, considering the "custom of the country."

MR. Henry Ohle, of McCormick, Ohle & Co., commission merchants, Virginia, Montana, is down here these days. Parties thinking of "trade and traffic" in that country the coming season, will find Ohle all o. k., and just their man.

THE literary public—in fact the entire reading world—will be pained to learn that Sir Edward Lytton Bulwer, the illustrious novelist, poet, and Statesman, has become utterly deaf, and been forced to abandon the society even of his most intimate friends.

O. M. CLAYS, State Printer of California, and publisher of the Stockton Index, has become one of the ancient order of Benedicts, having espoused a lady of Stockton a few days since. He carries the congratulations of all the brotherhood of Faust into his new state.

THE reason that b'eggs 'av riz here, is believed to be owing to the fact that the hens are unable to gather up small change enough for revenue stamps to put upon their "manufactured articles." Vouchers, they think, won't do, and "New York exchange" is not much better.

DETENTION IN SACRAMENTO.—The rumor was current in Sacramento of the defection of Freeman McComber, late Public Administrator, who has left the State. His term expired about 18 months ago, but a number of the largest estates of which he had charge have never been settled up. He recently conveyed all his real estate, embracing nearly 1,000 acres, to his brother. He was a candidate before the late Union County Convention, says the Union, for renomination.

BELL, of "Bell & Everett" notoriety, is now back in Nashville, and "none so poor to do him reverence."

"No change in the Overland Telegraph line," as the San Francisco papers say. If there has been change or larger pieces, coin or currency, in the outfit all this season, you can win a "summer drink" off us! Change and constancy are all the same with it. SUNSTROKE.—Died, in Los Angeles, on the 25th of July, Wm. M. Hollister, of Ohio, late member of Company I, Fourth California Infantry. About two months ago, while driving express between Camp Cady and Fort Mohave, he was sunstruck, and never recovered from the effects of it. He was much respected by all his comrades.

NATE CORNISH's party of passengers from Boise to the States struck town yesterday. The whole outfit comprises three hundred, but not all belonging to the Cornish line. Returning Idahoans on horseback, muleback, and in wagons, stages and wheeled vehicles of all kinds, are confederated to cross the plains together. The party will prove invincible to any moderate number of Indians.

If you're tired of borrowing and bunning your neighbor's paper, we can find room yet for your name on our subscription list! Try it for a change. It is only a V per quarter, or $2 for a whole month in advance! Don't disremember the last point, as we have to pay for paper and materials in advance, or on delivery, which is pretty much the same.

Local and Miscellaneous:

THE Nevada, Cal., Gazette says about 140 laborers commenced work lately near Gold Run, excavating for the Central Pacific Railroad. The company are now pushing ahead their works with great energy, and it is confidently expected that by July, 1896, the cars will be running as far as Crystal Lake, a point about nineteen miles above Dutch Flat.

CHICKEST JEWELRY AND CHEAP.—It is a fact that possibly all of us don't know, or, knowing, don't act upon, that Mr. Meek's, Jeweler, &c., East Temple street, keeps new assortments of the choicest goods, of the sweetest styles, and at the cheapest figures, which can be bought this side of the Pacific. His California quartz goods, for gents' and ladies' wear, would fetch four times those prices asked in the States.

THE congregation worshipping at Rev. N. McLeod's church, (as yet held in the hall of the Literary Association,) held a meeting on Tuesday evening, and passed a series of resolutions strongly recommending their worthy pastor to the liberality of christian communities on the Pacific coast, whither he intends to start immediately, soliciting "material aid" for the erection of a church structure in this "benighted burg". The "gentile" congregation here not being numerous nor well able to do any more than they have done already,—that is, bought a $3,000 lot, and put their names down for additional encouragement—it is hoped the generous good people in the Pacific metropolis will aid our little Zion in this its "day of small things." The future will repay them with "compound interest."

HAVE WE A POET AMONG US?—It is noticeable that not an original "poem" or stanza of original poetry has appeared in the daily prints of this large city for a long, long time. Wonder why it is—and still so many women. Now in New England and elsewhere, with populations only quarter ours—particularly where the "fair sex predominate" as here, the journals would be "chock full" of musings to the morning-glories or "odes original" to the "shades of evening." Has this sizzling season dried up the fountains of Parnassus, or have the Muses "soured" on this city of the "saints"? Can't some sensible cherub of a school-girl, or some sublimated seraph of a widow hereabouts, write a body something fresh, "and faith we'll print 'em." Anything will do, if it's only short and sweet.

Particularly in this romantic region of lakes and rivers, hills and vales, may the lines of Percival apply—
"The world is full of poetry—the air
Is living with its spirit; and the waves
Dance to the music of its melodies,
And sparkle in its brightness."

Fairy Belle.

At the village, and the fairest in the land, of my song, and her name is Fairy Belle. The sound of her light step may be heard upon the hill. Like the fall of the snowdrop or the dripping of the rill.

Fairy Belle.

Fairy Belle, gentle Fairy Belle, the star of the night and the day, Fairy Belle, the queen of all the dell. Long may she revel on her bright sunny way. She sings to the meadows, and she carols to the streams. She laughs in the sunlight, and smiles while in her dreams. Her hair, like the thistle-down, is borne upon the breeze. Her heart, like the humming-bird, is free from every care.

Cocoon—Fairy Belle, &c.

Her soft notes of melody around me sweetly fall: Her eyes, full of love, is now beaming on my soul. The sound of that gentle voice, the glance of that eye, beguiled me with rapture that no other heart could give.

DE ABERNETHY used to tell his pupils that all human diseases sprang from two causes—stiffing and fretting.

BACHELORS are not entirely lost to the refinement of sentiment, for the following toast was given by one of them at a public dinner: "The ladies—sweet briars in the garden of life."

AFFECTION, like spring flowers, breaks through the most frozen ground at last; and the heart which seeks but for another heart to make it happy, will never seek in vain.

A father was winding his watch, when he said, playfully, to his little girl, "Let me wind your nose up." "No," said the child, "I don't want my nose wound up, for I don't want it to run all day."

Mrs. Partington, in illustration of the proverb, "A soft answer turneth away wrath," says, "that it is better to speak paragonically of a person than to be all the time flinging epithets at him."

"Love in men is like the di-temper in dogs," said a disappointed spinster. "Neither puppies nor men are worth anything till they have had it."

7.30 LOAN.

Third Series.

$230,000,000.

By authority of the Secretary of the Treasury, the undersigned, the General subscription Agent for the sale of United States securities, offers to the public the third series of Treasury Notes, bearing seven and three-tenths per cent. interest per annum, known as the

7.30 LOAN.

These notes are issued under date of July 15, 1895, and are payable three years from that date in currency, or are convertible at the option of the holder into

U. S. 5.20 Six per Cent.

Gold bearing Bonds.

The Bonds are now worth a handsome premium, and are exempt, as are all the Government Bonds, from County and Municipal taxation, which adds from one to three per cent. per annum to their value, according to the rate levied upon other property. The interest is payable semi-annually by coupon attached to each note, which may be cut off and sold to any bank or banker.

The interest at 7.30 per cent. amounts to:

One cent per day on a $50 note.

Two cents per day on a $100 note.

Ten cents " " " $500 "

Twenty cents " " " $1,000 "

One Dollar " " " $5,000 "

Notes of all the denominations named will be promptly furnished upon receipt of subscriptions.

The notes of this Third Series are precisely similar in form and privilege to the Seven Thirtieths already sold, except that the Government reserves to itself the option of paying in gold or in currency at 6 per cent. instead of 7.30th in currency. Subscribers will deduct the interest in currency on to July 15th, at the time when the subscription.

The delivery of the notes of this third series of the seven thirtieths will commence on the first of June, and will be made promptly and continuously thereafter that date.

The slight change made in the conditions of this THIRD SERIES affects only the matter of interest. The payment in gold, if made, will be equivalent to the currency interest of the higher rate.

The return to specie payments, in the event of which only will the option to pay interest in Gold be availed of, would reduce and equalize prices that purchases made with six per cent. gold would not be fully equal to those made with seven and three-tenths per cent. in currency. This is

The only Loan in the ## MARKET.

Now offered by the Government, and its superior advantages make it the ## Great popular Loan of the People.

Less than $230,000,000 of the Loan authorized by Congress are now on the market. This amount, at the rate at which it being absorbed, will all be subscribed for within sixty days, when the notes will undoubtedly command a premium, as has uniformly been the case on closing the subscriptions to other Loans.

In order that citizens of every town and section of country may be offered facilities for taking the Loan, the National Banks, State Banks, and private Bankers throughout the country have generally agreed to receive subscriptions at par. Subscribers will select their own agents, in whom they have confidence, and who only are to be responsible for the delivery of the notes for which the receive orders.
